Dear Mr. Joyce:

Upon our conversation through phone last Monday, I noticed that my utility patent application involves two distinct species and both species could be patentable. From the document I received from your office action summary, those distinct species are:

Group 1: Figures 1-16.

Group 2: Figure 17.

Since majority of my application describes invention for Group 1, I would like to elect Group 1 as the sole specie for my application. I carefully checked all my 20 claims, they all related to Group 1, so I want to keep those claims.

In Group 2 (Figure 17), I discussed an alternative design different from Group 1, I thought its mechanism of operation is same as Group 1, I would rather to get my principle of invention to be protected instead of various structural designs, so I didn't apply any claim for this alternative design refers to Figure 17. If this Group 2 still causes some difficulties, it may be eliminated. In that case I may apply another patent for this alternative design in the future.

If you have any question during your examination process, please contact me at any time.

My phone numbers: (607)341-6400 (Cell)

Respectively;
